DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after allowance or after an Office action under Ex Parte Quayle, 25 USPQ 74, 453 O.G. 213 (Comm'r Pat. 1935). Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, prosecution in this application has been reopened pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 4/13/06 has been entered.

Information Disclosure Statement

2. The information disclosure statement filed 4/13/06 fails to comply with 37 CFR 1.98(a)(3) because it does not include a concise explanation of the relevance, as it is presently understood by the individual designated in 37 CFR 1.56(c) most knowledgeable about the content of the information, of each patent listed that is not in the English language. Japanese document number 3729763 has been placed in the file but has not been considered. There is no explanation of the relevance of this document (for example, an English abstract) and therefore, it has not been considered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

Art Unit: 1773

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

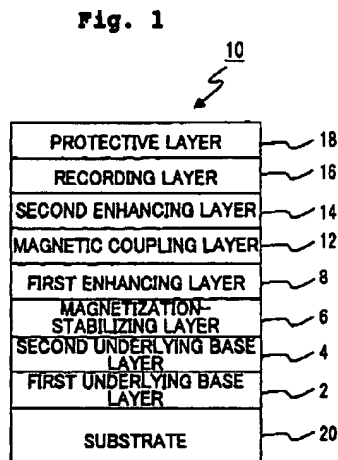

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

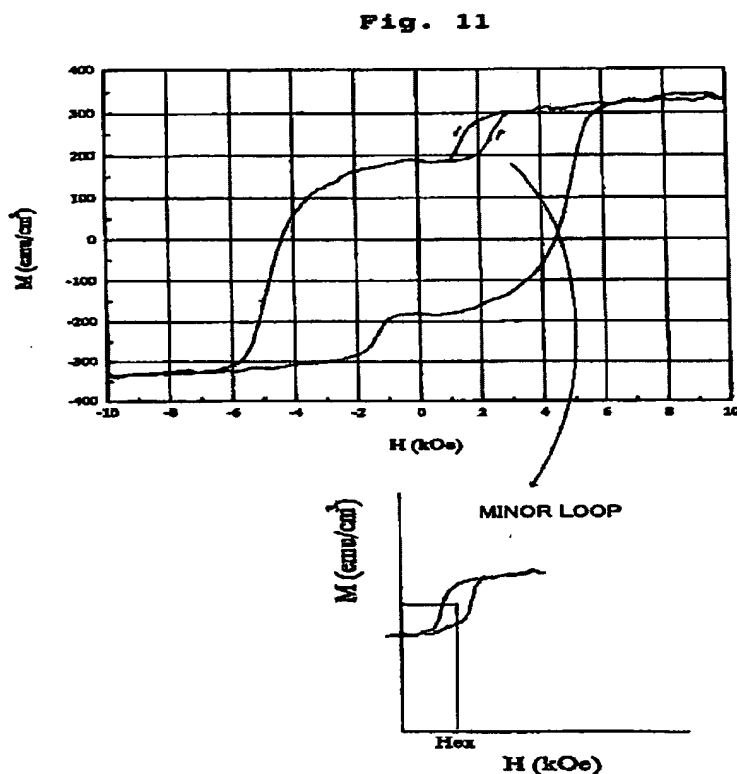

5. Claims 17-20 and 23-24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Yamanaka et al. (US 2002/0064689).

Yamanaka et al. discloses a magnetic recording medium and apparatus including a magnetic head wherein the recording medium has the following structure:

Art Unit: 1773

Layers 6 and 16 correspond to the claimed first and second magnetic layers, layer 12 corresponds to the claimed non-magnetic coupling layer and layers 8 and 14 correspond to the claimed coupling intensifying regions. The reference teaches that the magnetic layers are formed from magnetic grains separated by grain boundaries (see paragraph 23 for example). These magnetic grain regions correspond to the claimed "unit recording portions." The reference teaches that the layers 6 and 16 are antiferromagnetically coupled and exhibit the following hysteresis pattern:

It appears from this hysteresis loop that the structure taught by Yamanaka et al. inherently satisfies the limitations of the claims directed to: (1) the antiparallel states of the first and second magnetic layer during a recording process as shown by the major loop and (2) the requirement that the exchange coupling field Hex1 is larger than the coercivity of the first and second magnetic layers as shown in the minor loop. These diagrams appear to be substantially the same as those shown by applicants in Fig 3 of the present application. Thus, the examiner concludes that the claimed invention and the prior art invention are the same.

It has been held that where claimed and prior art products are identical or substantially identical, or are produced by identical or substantially identical processes, the burden of proof is shifted to applicant to show that prior art products do not necessarily or inherently possess characteristics of claimed products where the rejection is based on inherency under 35 USC §102 or on prima facie obviousness under 35 USC §103, jointly or alternatively. In re Best, Bolton, and Shaw, 195 USPQ 430. (CCPA 1977).
